LETTER from the Director SBH

BARBARA NANKYA MUTAGUBYA

Dear Friends,

I am excited to present to you the Sanyu Babies' Home Newsletter for the first quarter of 2025. This newsletter celebrates our recent accomplishments and provides a glimpse into the exciting plans we have for the coming months. I hope you will enjoy reading all about it.

We are deeply grateful for your continued support—your prayers, encouragement, and generosity carry us a long way as we strive to show Christ-like love to babies and children deprived of parental care. Through family reunification, fostering, and adoption, we work tirelessly to reintegrate these little ones into loving homes. Stories like the significant transformation of Joshua and the success of our new Solar Energy System are a testament to what your partnership makes possible.

We are excited for you to find out more about Phase 2 of our Solar Energy Project. The first stage was more successful than we planned; it has reduced operating costs, provided sustainably energy, enabled smoother laundry, cooking, and bathing routines and has improved the working environment of the kitchen department. It has also helped to support the medical department, powering medical equipment and reducing the number of hospital visits. The second phase of the project will continue to support these key areas. As we embark on the second phase of the Solar Energy System, I encourage you to consider prayerfully how God would have you partner with Sanyu or what God would have you give.

As always, we are truly indebted to out dear volunteers – especially those who have made Sanyu their second home. The compassion and service of local and international volunteers is truly inspiring.

As we celebrate Easter, we are reminded of the hope and life we have in Christ. His light shines though in every act of love and care at Sanyu Babies Home. Sanyu Babies Home means 'Home of Joy'. We hope and pray that this Easter the joy of the lord will be with you and your loved ones too. Thank you for being part of our Sanyu family.

Wishing you and your loved ones a joyful and blessed Easter.

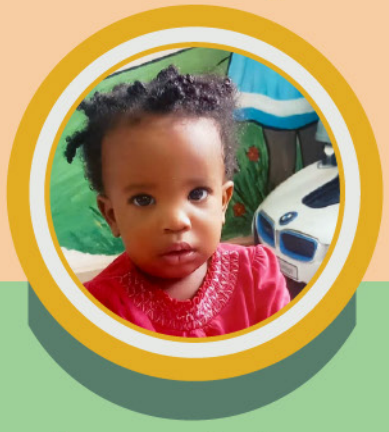

"Let us not become weary in doing good, for at the proper time, we shall reap a harvest if we do not give up" (Galatians 6:9)

Barbara Nankya Mutagubya – Director

Hellos and GOODBYES

The past three months have been very busy with changes involving 13 children. Each time we receive a child, our Social Work department does their best to perform a thorough investigation to try and discover where the baby came from and if possible, to reunite the baby with their family. Since our last newsletter, we have welcomed the following babies:

Etania Masembe (10 months) arrived on 4th January 2025. She was referred to Sanyu Babies' Home by the Wandegeya Police Station as a survivor of child trafficking for temporary care and protection as investigations are done.

Joshua R. Kafeero (3 years) arrived on 10th January 2025. He was referred to Sanyu Babies' Home by Kyengera Police Station after being rescued from the community as a neglected child.

#HELLOS

Julie Anne Mirembe (4 months) arrived on 13th January 2025. She was found abandoned by an unknown person at Jaguar Bus Park. The case was reported to Old Kampala Police Station and later the baby was referred to Sanyu Babies' Home for temporary care and protection as investigations are done.

Erinah Kugonza (5 days) arrived on 22nd January 2025. She was found abandoned by an unknown person at Kawaala. The case was reported to Kawaala Police Station and the child was referred to Sanyu Babies' Home for temporary care and protection as investigations are done.

Paul Baraka (4 years) arrived on 13th March 2025. He was rescued as a lost/ missing child. The case was reported to Nabweru Police Station and the child was referred to Sanyu Babies' Home for temporary care and protection as investigations for his family members are done.

Joshua's Transformation

Joshua arrived at Sanyu on the 10th January 2025. Upon arrival he was assessed by the Sanyu Nurses and it was discovered that he had severe acute malnutrition. Despite being approximately 3 years old, he weighed just 6.2kg. Joshua was a very sad and weak little boy when he arrived. He had gone through so much already in his short life, and was very withdrawn from the world. He was hard to interact with, and he rarely smiled. Due to his worrying condition he was admitted to Mulago Hospital on the 17th January and spent 2 weeks and 4 days in the malnutrition unit. Joshua spent his time in Mulago Hospital being looked after by Mama Rebecca. She provided him with 24/7 love, care, and attention and attended to his every need. Slowly but surely, Joshua began to put on weight and his condition improved. On 3rd February, Joshua was discharged and came home to Sanyu.

If you saw Joshua now, there is no way you would recognise him from the sad, withdrawn and malnourished little boy who arrived at Sanyu. Joshua is now full of life and is constantly smiling. He has learnt to walk and loves to play in the play area with the older children. Joshua eats his meals independently and enjoys eating food and drinking porridge. Joshua loves to play with toys and spend time interacting with people. He is such a bright little boy, and instigates interactions with others by giving them toys or approaching them. Joshua's laugh is truly infectious and he is such a little bundle of joy!

In the short time that Joshua has been at Sanyu he has made a true transformation, and we can't wait to watch him continue to progress and thrive. It is never too late to have a happy childhood!

SOLAR ENERGY PROJECT: Phase 2

As you may know, Sanyu has recently installed a Solar Energy System to provide sustainable energy for the home. The aim was to reduce Sanyu's operating costs and improve the home's sustainability, by installing an Institutional Solar Power Generating and Electric system. This is an energy efficiency project that supports all daily household electrical appliance needs.

Impact of the Current System

The system is enabling us to reduce firewood and charcoal expenditures, electricity bills, and generator fuel costs. Thanks to the incredible generosity from the SNV-IMEU project, who gave us a grant covering 50% of the original costs, and through our wonderful donors, we were able to fund the project.

The solar energy project has already made a huge difference to the work of Sanyu Babies' Home. Previously, the laundry staff had to work through the night as the washing machines could only be operated during nighttime hours due to the high costs of electricity in the day. Now the laundry staff can work during the day, and the laundry process is much smoother. The energy efficient pressure cookers in the children's kitchen have made a huge difference to cooking time as well as reducing energy costs, and it is much easier for the kitchen staff to produce good quality and nutritious meals for the children.

Hot water is much more readily available, which is not only useful for cooking but also for bathing children. Previously, hot water had to be boiled, carried to the bathroom, and mixed with cold water so that the babies could be bathed in warm water. This was time-consuming and labour-intensive. Now, the children can bathe in warm water easily; this is very important when you have very small or sick babies and are in Uganda's rainy season. It has also helped to support the medical department, powering medical equipment and reducing the number of hospital visits.

Achievements

The current installed solar electric system has generated 22.1 MWh of electricity units, amounting to Ugx 13,283,000 saved for both cooking and powering AC applications. The system has also saved 2.23 tons of CO2 emissions and saved 1,230 trees from being cut to provide fuel to meet the home's energy needs.

Phase 2: Expanding and Improving the System

Due to the success of the first phase of the solar energy project, we are ready to complete stage 2. There are some extra items that we would like to install as well as improving the whole system to cope better with the ever-increasing energy usage of a home like ours. Following the success of the pressurized cooking pots in the children's kitchen, we would also like to install them in the staff's kitchen.
To meet the growing energy needs of the home, Phase 2 will include:
- Installing additional solar panels to increase energy generation
- Upgrading the energy storage system to ensure a stable power supply
- Implementing energy-efficient lighting and appliances throughout the home

Expected Benefits

We expect Phase 2 to bring significant benefits, including:
- A further reduction in operating costs, estimated at Ugx 5 million per month
- A decrease in carbon emissions, estimated at 1.5 tons per year
- Improved energy security and reliability for the home

Call to Action

To meet all the needs outlined in Phase 2, we need to raise a further UGX 250 million. We thank you greatly in advance for any donations made and fundraising appeals organized. Your support will help us:
- Reduce our carbon footprint and contribute to a sustainable future
- Lower operating costs and allocate more resources to caring for the children
- Provide a better life for Uganda's future leaders

You can make international donations through International Bank Payments (page 19), World Remit (page 21), and Western Union (page 20). Donations can also be made using Mobile Money (page 19) or through a payment to our bank account:

Bank: Equity Bank

By investing in and supporting this project, you are investing in the Sanyu Babies; Uganda's future leaders! Together, we can make a lasting impact and create a brighter future for generations to come.

10 YEARS LATER

> Little did I know that 10 years later, I would still be volunteering regularly at Sanyu and I would run my own charity – Joy of Learning – working with the reunited children of Sanyu Babies' Home...

It is almost 10 years since I first stepped foot in Uganda and volunteered at Sanyu Babies' Home. When I look back at my first trip, I remember how homesick I was to begin with; I almost flew home early. But I also remember slowly falling in love with Uganda, and with Sanyu Babies' Home. Little did I know that 10 years later, I would still be volunteering regularly at Sanyu and I would run my own charity – Joy of Learning – working with the reunited children of Sanyu Babies' Home.

Lots has changed at Sanyu over the years. I have met hundreds of children and worked with lots of different wonderful staff. People come and go, but the Sanyu family always remains. I have watched numerous children learn to sit, walk, talk and run. It never gets old for me, and I love to see that it also never gets old for the Sanyu staff, too. Many of them will have helped hundreds of children learn to walk, yet they get equally excited each time a new child takes their first steps. The grounds of Sanyu Babies' Home have changed over the years; buildings have been decorated and re-organised, and there has been a new roof, a new perimeter wall, and new furniture. Despite the changes, it remains a place of safety and refuge for many children and staff.

Over the years, I have had the privilege of saying goodbye to children as they are reunited, fostered and transferred to new homes. Some are harder goodbyes than others, but they are always filled with joy as well as sadness.

Joy that the child is moving on to their next chapter, but tinged with sadness that you will never see them again, especially those you have known for a long time. I have formed very special bonds with a few children, often those with additional needs. I have become one of their special people at Sanyu – one of their Sanyu Mamas.

I lived in Uganda for 2 and half years, during which time the global pandemic occurred. It was a hard time to be away from family, but some of my most special Sanyu memories are from those years. We had so many children, and very limited staff, and yet everyone worked together and did their bit, so it worked.

I have been very involved with the Sanyu school over the years, helping to develop a Sanyu curriculum, set up 1 to 1 sessions and organise regular swimming trips. During the pandemic, I spent almost every weekday morning in class helping with activities and still vividly remember lots of the activities we did as they were so much fun.

More recently, since setting up Joy of Learning, I have been able to work with lots of the reunited children and their families. Our aim is to enable reunited children and their siblings to access education by finding educational sponsors who pay for the school fees and requirements for each child. We also make sure that the basic needs of each family are met, by providing food, hygiene products, clothing and medical support where needed. Seeing our Sanyu children back with family members, where they belong, is so special.

Although lots of my time is spent running Joy of Learning, I will never not be a Sanyu volunteer. I run the Sanyu social media, as well as helping put newsletters together, so even when I am in the UK, I am still a 'virtual volunteer'. When I am lucky enough to be in Uganda, I make sure to spend as much time of possible at Sanyu, as this is where it all began. Sanyu has become my second home, and the Sanyu staff have become family. They have watched me grow up and helped me become the person I am today. A few years ago, I was given the title of 'Sanyu's Adopted Child'. Though it causes great confusion at times when I am introduced as the Sanyu Child, as understandably people look for a toddler, I am honoured to have that name.

Sanyu is such a special place, and I am so happy to call it my second home. Bring on the next 10 years!

SPONSOR A CHILD

Sanyu takes care of up to 50 babies and toddlers who have been abandoned, orphaned or abused. When children arrive at Sanyu they are often in very poor states of health, sometimes malnourished and they need a lot of love and care. One of the ways you can help these children is by sponsoring a child.

When you sponsor a child at Sanyu you commit to partnering with us by making a monthly donation of $15/60,000 UGX. That monthly donation ensures that Sanyu is able to take care of every child's essential daily needs. Sanyu is run almost entirely on donations, many of which are one-off, so having a regular monthly donation means that Sanyu can reliably provide for our children day in, day out. It means that food can be bought, bills can be paid, medical needs met, and loving staff can be given salaries for their work.

When you sponsor a child at Sanyu, you are partnered with one specific child. Each quarter you receive an update on your specific child and find out about what they have been doing. You really get to know your sponsored child and lots of photos are included too.
Your monthly donation of $15 or 60,000 UGX helps up to 50 babies and toddlers under the care of Sanyu to have hope, to be loved, to be nourished and to go home to their forever family when the time is right.

If you would like more information, please contact Director Barbara on sanyubabhome1@gmail.com or 0788162147.
Thank you in advance for the difference you will be making in the lives of the Sanyu Babies.

An Afternoon in the Sandpit

FROM A LAST-BORN CHILD TO "MAAMA WA BAANA"

Greetings! My name is Nimurungi Paula and I volunteered at Sanyu Babies' Home for 1 and ½ months at the beginning of 2025. I am a student at Strathmore University and I am required to do volunteer work (Service Based Learning) as a prerequisite for my degree qualification. I had the privilege of completing my Service Based Attachment at Sanyu and began on 8th January 2025. I had a little knowledge of the home from visits as a child and from friends who had volunteered there before. Little did I know when I visited the home as a child, that I would end up having an amazing volunteering experience years later.

Being a last-born child, I did not have much experience with children - especially babies. I had an anxious approach to children because I feared I was doing the wrong thing whenever I would handle them. When I began working at Sanyu, I feared that this would affect my performance at the home, but little did I know that the mamas had experience with volunteers like me. Their patience and understanding enabled them to share their expertise with me and within no time, I was able to perform the tasks any mother is expected to do e.g. changing diapers, feeding children, bathing children, dressing the children. One memorable experience I had is when one of the mamas (Mama Samantha) taught me how to bathe a newborn child that was brought into Sanyu shortly after I began volunteering. After accomplishing that task, I felt all the fear that I initially had leave me and was able to slowly transition to becoming "maama wa baana."

Throughout the time I volunteered at Sanyu, I was able to work in different departments so could get a holistic picture of how the home is run, although I spent most of the time looking after the babies aged 0-12 months. I believe through this experience, I became more mature and I understand the importance of hard work. I realised the huge amount of work required to maintain the high standards of professionalism and cleanliness within the home.

I appreciated the impact volunteering has within such a home and the effort the mamas put in to ensure that Sanyu is what it is. I was especially impressed by the way the children with special needs were taken care of. One of these children included Edinah who was diagnosed with cerebral palsy. I admired the way the mamas took special care of her with a lot of courage and grace. I was lucky enough to be mentored by the mamas on how to feed her, bathe her and dress her.

I was able to cultivate lovely relationships with the mamas and my fellow volunteers through the sentimental conversations we would have with one another, the tiresome tasks we would do together at times and through singing fun filled songs to the babies hoping to put smiles on their faces. The shared love we had for the children enabled us to get along and this made my experience even richer.

The name "Sanyu" suits this home because it is definitely filled with joy, but it is also filled with love.

I cannot write about my full experience working at Sanyu in just one article, but the six weeks experience I had is one that I will carry in my heart for an entire lifetime. The name "Sanyu" suits this home because it is definitely filled with joy, but it is also filled with love. This love is not something one can write about but can only truly be experienced. I was able to feel this love from the time I would enter through Sanyu's gates enthusiastically every morning, up until evening when I would tearfully say my goodbyes to the children even though I was going to see them the following day. The home is what it is because of the love the staff carry in their hearts enabling them work selflessly to ensure the children are well cared for. Therefore, despite the fact that I started volunteering at Sanyu to meet a school requirement, I have found a second home and will definitely be back.
